A KISS. A kiss in honor, Who'll take upon her To frown it off? Caress so tender May well defend her From prudish scoff.

No friendship meagre, Thus warm and eagre Bids young lips meet; Mere friends consenting To hands acquainting Hath nought so sweet

But do I love her, When thus I prove her With bold caress? If yearnful moving Like thine, be loving, Heart, answer yes?

Such tender glamour, Delicious tremor, Beneath her eye— The golden essence Of her sweet presence Must I deny?

Nay, do I love her, When thus I prove her, With love for aye? Dread tascination, Thou sweet temptation! Avaunt! away!

Yet, ere thou leave me, Not quite bereave me, No lurker's nigh, Shame, no demurrage! Heart, prove thy courage! One kiss! good-bye!

HOW WE RECAPTURED THE "NEWCASTLE."

BY W. H. MACY.

"Man the mastheads there!" was the order from the mate of the Statesman, on a clear, bright morning, in the tropical latitudes of the Pacific.

The order was obeyed by those whose turn it was to take the first lookout of the morning. But the youngster whose stiltion w s in the 'fore topgallant crossti e paused a moment in the foretop and th re w a rapid glance ground the horizon.

"Sail on the weather bow !" he reported 'A boat with all sail set, coming right at

The announcement caused a stir at once on deck, and brought up not only the Captain, but all the watch below. The all-important morning duty of was bing off decks was suspended for the time be ing, to gaze upon the unwonted spectacle of a whale-boat alone upon the ocean, coming to board us in the morning, like the veritable barber, Neptune, of equatorial notoriety. The boat was not more than a couple of miles from as when first discovered, approaching swiftly under the combined power of sail and oars. The Captain's telescope was brought to bear, and it was soon ascertained that she had at least a full crew. We backed the main topsail and hove to, waiting impatiently to know more, and making various shrewd greeses and speculations as to her history and character.

"A gang of runaways," said one, dogmatically.

'Don't believe it," returned his neighbor. "Too far from land." "O, that's nothing. Why, when I's in the old Speedy-" "They've lowered for whales, and got lost from their ship, suggested a nother speaker. "Aye, that's more likely."

"The old man makes out eight men in her," said one of the boat-steerers, coming from aft.

Here was a new phase of the matter, and our theories were blown to the winds Nobody would lower in pursuit of whales with any more than six in a boat: and even deserters, reckless as they are sometimes known to be, would hardly o verload for a long sea voyage.

"Castaways of course," was the unanimous opinion. "Ship foundered or burnt at sea, and some of her boats lost with

But we were not long kept in suspense. for the strangers brought their frail craft alongside as rapidly as oars and canvass colud do it, and leaped in on deck. In a few minutes we were in possession of the whole story, a parody on the old one of Bligh and Fletcher Christian.

The boat contained Captain Watson, his mate and six others, from the bark Newcastle, of Sydney, who had been set adrift the day before by mutineers. The second mate was at the head of the conspiracy, which had been most artfully planned, and carried into execution while he had charge of the deck. His two superiors had not even the slightest suspicion of anything wrong until they found themselves prisoners in their state-rooms.

It was supposed that McGregor, the new commander, intended to carry the bark down among the Marshall Islands, and there destroy her, taking up his residence among the savages. There were still-and how many were merely cowed into submission to the new authority, was more than the Captain could tell.

"And how far do you suppose the ship to be from us now?" asked Captain Bent. "I have steered west-northwest by compass, as near as I could," said Captain Watson, "and have run, I should judge, east. The Newcastle, when I lost sight of her, was by the wind on the northern tack, under easy sail. She ought to be nearly due east from us.

"Come below, and let us lay off your course on the chart. I don't know as I can do anything for you, even if I should fall in with your ship, but it might be some satisfaction to see."

The two captains went into the cabin. and soon the order was passed along to make all sail on a wind. Nothing was seen during the day, and at night we tacked back again. And the first gray light of morning showed us the bark, recthem. ognized at once by Captain Watson and his mate as their own vessel, running down across our course.

"Of course he won't pass near us if he can help it," said Watson.

"No. I suppose he will avoid us, but I am going to signalize at any rate. Haul the main sail up," said the Captain to the officer of the deck, "and set the ensign at the gaff."

The orders were obeyed, and, much to our surprise, the mutineers altered their course a little, with the evident intention of speaking us.

"What can it mean, that he is so ready to speak a stranger?" was the question that passed from one to another of the

"Now I think of it," said the mate of the Newcastle. "I think I know his ol ject. If he really means to wind up his cruise in one of the Marshall Islands, he will want to make a trade for tobacco and firearms."

"You've hit it," returned his Captain. That must be McGregor's object. There isn't much tobacco on board, an! but little powder. He wants to buy more. Captain Bent, let you and I have another talk by ourselves," he added, seeming to have con ceived some new idea.

Their conterence was short, but, judging rom the expression on their faces when they came on deck and took the mates into their confidence, it seemed to have been productive of something of importance. The bark's boat, in which the wanderer's had been picked up, was placed overhead on the skids, as if she the remark of His Excellency. and been one of our own, and a sail thrown over her, that she might not be keep themselves out of sight while the wo vessels were in communication.

"What bark is that?" asked Captain Bent, innocently, after he had given his own name.

"The Newcastle, of Sydney."

"Who commands her?" "Watson," was the reply.

"Not just at present," muttered Watson to himself, who was crouching in the companion way, so as to hear and see without being seen. "But I hope he may before night."

"One of my men had his leg broken vesterday," hailed our Captain, "and I would like to get the services of your surgeon."

"Certainly. I'll come aboard and bring the Doctor with me. I wish to see you to make some trade with you." And with a farewell wave of his trumpet, as the vessel passed out of his hearing, he luffed to under our lee and lowered his boat. Now the Doctor of the Newcastle was at that moment in our own cabin, he having been set adrift in the boat with Captain Watson; but McGregor would, of course, bring some one to personate the character. This would take seven men from the crew: and it was also certain that he would man his boat with his choice spirits, tor if he brought any doubtful or lukewarm ones, they might prattle. We had our instructions, and within five minutes after the seven men stepped on our deck, they had all been decoyed below and quietly secured.

The boat was veered astern by the warp and the main topsail filled on a wind, just as if we had made arrangements for a day's "gahi," according to the frequent usage of whaleships on cruising-ground. Of course our partner followed our lead, keeping company with us a'l day, without the least suspicion. The remainder of our plan to regain possession of the ship could only be carried out under the cover

McGregor and his associates in crime were ironed and placed in the run for safe keeping, where they chafed under confinetwenty men on board, but how many of ment, totally unable to help themselves, them were actively engaged in the plot, or to make their situation known to their friends. After dark we hove to, and set a light in the rigging, which was at once answered by another from the Newcastle, as she closed with us and lay under our

Away went a boat from us in charge of our mate, with a picked crew, while a short distance astern of her followed another, with Captain Watson and his whole party. The ruffian who was in charge of the bark, calling himself mate of her, was amused by the first comers with the story that his Captain had made a bargain for a quantity of gunpowder and tobacco, and that our mate had been sent for the mone in payment. Suspecting nothing, he invited his visitor below, to drink and enjoy himself a while. Our men managed adroitly to engage the attention of those on deck, and the second boat was almost alongside in the darkness before her approach had been observed by

The alarm was given by the cry "Boat ahoy!" but too late. As she touched the side her crew sprang up to assist ours. forming a superior force, with all the advantages of surprise. McGregor's lieu tenant was knocked down by our mate, in the cabin; the men who really had any heart in the mutiny were quickly disposed of; and in less than two minutes from the time the boat was hailed, the quarterdeck of the Newcastle was in possession of her former officers.

McGregor and the other principals in the revolt, still ironed, were carried to Sydney for trial. As our season was up, we kept company with Captain Watson, and made our port there, where we were liberally rewarded by the owners of tle recaptured vessel for our share in the business.

GRANT ON THE WAR.

The views of General Grant on the conduct of the European war are something which all the world has an interest in knowing, and during the visit of his Excellency we have obtained at some length his general opinion of matters on the Rhenish frontier.

The General, in response to a question as to his opinion of matters between France and Prussia, said that neither party understood war as he understands it Here the reporter of the Times ventured to assert a cordial endorsement of "Permit me, General," said Scammon

"to ask you to point out what you conrecognized. The crew were instructed to ceive to be the chief blunders of the cam

"France," said the General, as he lit : fresh cigar, "made a blunder in commencing the war upon a people of equal size and strength. The true way to make war is to always have three to your enemy's one. An ilustration of the fact was given at Shiloh. The enemy there was within a third as large as my own force. Hence the disaster which befel me."

"But, General," said the reporter, "have you no faith in maneuvering or in strat egy, whereby inferiority in numbers can be equalized by superiority of brains?"

"None whatever. Sherman played that out in his march to the sea. You see the Confederacy was only a shell, and that is why he met with such success. He had no opposition. My own experience proves this. In all cases where I attempted any of these new-fangled operations, I was beaten"

Here Mr. Colfax, with a very sweet smile, inquir d as to what the General thought should be done by Napoleon.

"My idea," said the General, "is that he should get Butler and Banks to command army corps in the Prussian force. Then he should conscript every Frenchman that can carry a musket and should send him in. Prussia has only 30,000,000 in habitants, while France has 40,000,000 New let Napoleon keep hammering away at the Prussians if it takes all summer. I am of the opinion that the superior activity of the French, aided by their chasse pot, their elan, their traditions, and their superior navy, will enable them to kill a Prussian as often as they can kill a Frenciman. Hence it's a clear case, that if Napoleon keeps hammering away till all of the Prussians are killed off, he will have 10,000,000 left. In other words, his cat's tail is the longest." "What is your opinion of Napoleon personally ?" asked Mr. Joseph Medill.

"He is a great man. He smokes always, and never says anything. He was once in humble circumstances. He was never, however, except perhaps so far as hiding himself is concerned."

Here General Dent broke into uproarous laughter. He afterwards remarked to our reporter that he was hired to laugh at all Grant's jokes; and, he added, he flattered himself he was doing a very extensive business on a very limited capital.

General Grant puffed stoically until Dent had Trashed laughing, and he resumed:

"Napoleon is my model. I have stood before his portrait by the hour, trying to mold my countenance into the stony inexpressiveness that characterizes his. I am not certain but that I shall imitate his coup d'etat. He rose from obscurity to be President. So did I. He rose from President to be Emperor; and if I don't follow suit it will be because Congress takes the trump out of my hand."

"Well, now, General, tell us what you think of the Prussians," said Mr. Green baum. "Don't like 'em," he responded, sententiously.

"Why not, your Excellency?"

"Well, I don't. They want office too much. Why, I have heard more than a hundred thousand applications from Dutchmen for office, whose only recommendation was that they "fought mit Sigel.' As voters I have no objections to then. During the war they stole everything, so that a native had no chance."

The General proceeded to comment on Prussian strategy. He did not like it, he said. They were in too much of a hurry. Here, now, in less than a month, they have nearly a million men in the field. which was a shorter time, he said, than he required to move his men from Fort Henry to Donelson-a distance of only thirty miles. This celerity, he remarked, is destructive of all precedent. The Prussians have gone further in ten days than he went in ten months when moving on Richmond.

He further thought the Prussian move a blunder. In place of going toward Paris by way of Metz, they ought to cross the James River and go round by way of Pe. tersburg. There is neither dignity nor sense in this way of rushing straight at Paris with a big army. The Prussian leaders ought to hold on and see who is to be the next President. This making war for war's sake was not, in his opinion the true principle of warfare. All wars should have the high and beautiful prin party to Congress, and the election of one's candidate to the Presidency.

At this moment it was announced that unch was ready, and the party broke up. Jenkins's Picnic.

Maria Ann recently determined to go to picnic.

Maria Ann is my wife-unfortunately She had planned it to go it alone, so far as I was concerned, on that picnic excursion; but when I heard it, I determined to assist. She pretended she was very glad; but I don't believe she was. "It will do you good to get away from your work, poor fellow," she said, "and we shall so much enjoy a cool morning ride on the cars, and dinner in the woods."

On the morning of that memorable day Maria Ann got up at five o'clock. About three minutes later she disturbed my slumbers and told me to come to breakfast. I told her I was not hungry, but it didn't make a particle of difference, I had to get up. The sun was up; I had no idea the sun began business so early in the morning, but there he was.

"Now," said Maria Ann, "we must fly around, for the cars start at half-past six. won't get anything more before noon."

I could not eat anything at that time in in the morning, and it was just as well I could not, for I had all I could do. There was ice to be pounded to go around the pail of ice cream, and the sandwiches to be cut, and I thought I never should get the legs of the chickens fixed so that I could put the cover on the big basket. Maria Ann flew around and piled up groceries for me to pack, and gave directions to the girl about taking care of the house, and was putting on her new dress all at once. There is a great deal of energy in that woman-perhaps a little too much.

At twenty minutes past six I stood on the front steps with a basket on one arm and Maria Ann's waterproof on the other, and a pail in each hand, and a bottle of vinegar in my coat skirt pocket. There was a camp chair hung on me somewhere, too, but I forget just where now.

"Now," said Maria Ann, "we must run or we shall not catch the cars." "Maria," said I, "that is a reasonable idea. How do vou suppose I can run with all this freight?

"You must, you brute. You always try to tease me. If you don't want a scene on the streets you will start, too."

I had one comfort at least. Maria Ann fell down and broke her parasol. She called me a brute again because I laughed; Maria drove me all the way to the depot on a brisk trot, and we got on the cars; but neither of us could get a seat, and I could not find any place where I could get to set the things down, so I stood there and held them.

"Maria," said I in winning accents, how is this for a cool morning ride?"

She said, "You are a brute, Jenkins." Said I. "My love, you have male that I kept my courage up, yet I knew there would be an hour of wrath when we got home. While we were getting out of the cars the bottle in my pocket got broke, and consequently I had one boot half full of vinegar all day. That kept me pretty quiet, and Maria Ann ran off with a big whiskered music teacher, and lost her fan and got her feet wet, and tore her dress, and enjoyed herself much after the fashion of picnic goers I thought it never would come dinner time, and Maria called me a pig because I wanted to open our basket before the rest of the baskets were opened.

At last it came. "The nice dinner in the woods," you know. Over three thousand little red ants had got into our dinner, and they were worse to pick out than fish bones. The ice cream had melted and there was no vinegar for the cold meat except what was of no immediate use. The music teacher spilled a cup of coffee on Maria's head, and pulled all her frizzles off trying to wipe the coffee off with his handkerchief. Then I sat upon a raspberry pie, and spoiled my white pants and concluded I didn't want anything more. I had to stand up against the tree for the balance of the afternoon The day offered considerable variety compared with every day office life; but there were so many little drawbacks that I did not enjoy it so much as I might have done.

A SAYING OF HENRY CLAY.-Henry Clay used to say that there were three classes of persons with whom it was never safe to quarrel:

First-Ministers. For the reason that they had pulpits from which they could ciple of returning the men of one's own denounce me, and I had none from which > Secondly-Elitors. For they had the most powerful engines from which they could every day hurl wrath and fury upon me and I had none through which to reply.

And Finally-With women. For they would have the last word any how.

FILIAL AFFECTION.—As a remarkable instance of filial affection and juvenile philosophy, we present the following: A lad of twelve or thirteen years of age visited a doctor and woke him with-"Doctor I want you to come and see dad-he's dvin'." "Well," says the doctor, "if he's dying I can't do him any good," "That's sc," rejoined the boy, "he'll be dead in less than an hour," and turning on his heel, added, "Well, by jing, we've all got to die some time or other, and dad might as well die now as any time."

A REPUBLICAN correspondent of the New York Post, writing from Ohio, says: 'Do not be surprised if the resolution in the Republican platform on that subject (the tariff) loses the State by twenty thousand majority, and sends Democrats Eat all the breakfast you can, for you from three-fourths of the districts to Con-

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

The war news during the past week has been of rather an exciting nature. The German forces are gradually closing in around Paris. Considerable fighting has taken place before the city, between small bedies of troops, with varying success, but most probably generally in favor of the Prussians, who are steadily gaining ground. Strasburg has capitulated. The heroic commander, Ulrich, was at length forced, by the demands of the citizens of the town, who suffered sadly from the effects of the siege, to surrender without reserve. Bazaine has made an offer to surrender Metz under certain conditions. that is: His baggage was to be unmolested, and his troops would refrain from hostilities for a period of three months. The offer was refused by the German commander. The typhus fever is said to be creating worse havoc among the German troops than the French arms. A report comes that Russia has massed 400,000 men on the Prussian frontier, and has sent a note to the English Government, saying that Prussia had "consistently and persistently violated her treaties, and in reply to remonstrances of other powers gave but insolence, and that now she had openly avowed the war on France to be one of -conquest, which would make her the dominant power of Europe. It was the duty of the other powers to check Prussia's policy of aggrandizement, or prepare for absorption in the German Empire." But flater dispatches do not confirm this report nor, in fact, do they say anything relative to the question. For our part we seriously doubt whether Russia would take part against Prussia. In fact, notwithstanding the reports to the contrary, we are of the opinion that Russia sanctions the course of Prussia. At least it seems strange to us that King William and Bistake the matter so coolly. If Russia was with their loathsome presence every avacting in the manner reported we think we would hear of the Prussians making preparations to meet the foe. But we hear long calender of crimes will be of no such preparations, but on the contrary the resources of Germany are being drained daily for the further prosecution of the French war. If, however, the report be true, that Russia does contemplate a war with Prussia, the rupture will surely result in a general European war. Eng. make equals of a race of people, who laud will be compelled to enter, and that murder and destroy Christian men and too on the side of Germany, and Austria, Italy and Turkey will be compelled to cities of the empire, almost under the ing countenances of Mose Fleishman and take sides. What the result would be is very noses of the officers of the law, who hard to foretell. We trust, though, that knew what was going on, and had the Prussia and France will be permitted to power to prevent, but would not, but settle this little difference of theirs with- rather assisted the priests and church horse over and had his wants attended to. out the interference of outsiders. late Central Committee, for a Democratic week. We regard this as move in the right direction. Unity of action in all political movements is necessary, if we propose to retain the Democratic party in power in this State, and gain victories elsewhere. The large accession of voters to the Republican party, by the enfranchising of the negroes, all of whom, we are proud to say, will vote the Radical ticket, admonishes us as Democrats and white men, opposed to the corrupt and unholy actions of villainous demagogues, who, in order to achieve their mercenary ends, are raking together the scum and filthy refuse of the lowest and most degraded nations that disgrace with their presence God's footstool, and by unjust and unlawful legislation are seeking to thrust athem upon the white people as their social have feeling in common with the white people of our land. pletely can we organize. In this county, of course, we have no fear of the Republicans whatever, but on the State ticket, every Democratic vote is needed. We earnestly hope that a general attendance from every section of the county will be had, so that we can have a complete and perfect unity of action. Let the ball be started and keep it going.

THE NEW RADICAL PROTEGES. The late horrible massacre of the French at Tien Sien, followed by the butchering of the English, by mobs of Chinese, urged on by besotted, pagan priests, seems to bring us back to the barbarous ages, when ignorance was in the supremacy, and superstion swayed the minds of the people to the commitment of just such atrocities upon the Christian people. The perpetrators of these horrors are the people for which our Radical rulers have of late conceived such a strange, unnatural love. It would seem that these acts ought, at least for a time, put a damper upon the flow of feeling, which has been gushing so spontaneously from their bosoms, towards the children of the celestial Empire. But on the contrary : they seem to recognize in these people, by these actions, kindred spirits. Sumner & Co. are seemingly impressed with the idea that their forefathers the Puritans have returned to earth, but instead of landing on Plymouth Rock, have taken up their abode in China, and not finding any quakers and witches to murder and burn, are disposing of other heritics, and of course their love for these murderers immediately grows warmer.

Certainly these Chinese are a nice people to encourage to come to our land: they are so intelligent; so patient; so full of all the prerequisites for citizens of a civilized, Christian country. The advanced stage of their civilization may be readily determined by the very excellent way they have of entertaing foreigners who enter the confines of their sacred domains. They tell us that we only have the lower class of the Chinese among us, and that if we make liberal laws the better class will then come. This better class is composed of those who stood and saw the citizens of France and England murdered, hunted down, as it were, like dogs in the streets, and gazed complacently, if not approvingly upon the brutish rabble, as they slaughtered the helpless nuns. By all means they should be invited to our shores by granting "to them all the rights and privileges of citizens of the most favored nations." Grant, Sumner & Co., if you do not interpose and stop, by the power which is in you vested, this flow of degraded human locusts, who are clogging enue of industry in our land, their blood will be on your heads, and your already greatly increased. You, who have enfranchised the beastish negro, and made him your equal, socially and politically, so far as law could accomplish the deed and who are now striving to force the la boring white men down to the level of the Chinese barbarians; you who would women in the streets of the principal dignitaries to urge the thing on: beware After taking a few doses of Sanderson's of what you are doing!

MANY persons in this county are not acquainted with the fact that the law allowing a bounty for the killing of gophers and squirrels applies to this county. The law allows ten cents apiece for gopher and five cents apiece for squirrel scalps. They must be presented in lots of not less the latter. These animals are a most intolerable nuisance, and the quicker they are cleared out the better, and this law is consequently a very good one. No provisions were made this year to meet the payment of these bounty claims, but parties may kill them and take the scalps to any Justice of the Peace in the county, and make proof that the animals were and political equals, to unite and force killed within the limits of Fresno, and them back, by electing white men, who the officer will then certify to the same. This certificate will be paid out of the bounty fund as soon as one is created, many people who have heretofore voted which will probably be next year. #### EDITORIAL JOTTINGS.

We have been over on King's river, and we will relate our experience. On Friday evening, the 24th ult., we borrowed Jim Walker's yellow horse "Billy," and Rousseau's saddle, and started for Centerville. This self same yellow horse rides a little hard, and we were not accustomed to riding, so we concluded as we had all night before us we would take our time, and not rush matters. After riding about an hour we met the Visalia stage, driven by friend Fleming. In the stage was Mr. W. W. Hill, our excellent County Treasurer. Hill had rode the yellow horse, and so sympathized with us. He said we looked weary and he produced a-well, we took a pull at it and felt better. In fact we felt as if we were possessed of a new spirit. A ride of about five hour's duration brought us to Caldwell's hotel, Centerville. The hotel was crowded, but friend Caldwell said he would find us a place upon which to lay our weary limbs for the night, which he accordingly done. We are opposed to early rising. These Centerville folks seem to favor it. The majority of the good people in the hotel got up somewhat in advance of the sun. We thought we would do as much, too; but we won't do it again. We havn't felt well since. We succeeded in stowing away a very large amount of the sumptuous breakfast spread upon the table, after having first stowed away one of those excellent pre parations of Len. Farrar's for improving the appetite. We noticed that all of Caldwell's boarders looked remarkably healthy, but were unable to determine whether it was on account of the wholesome food he places before them or the excellent quality of Len Farrar's whiskey, as we noticed that they partook liberally of each; but we think that perhaps it was owing to their combining the two. After breakfast we took a short stroll around

And found it to be a rapidly growing place, with an apparently prosperous fu ture before it. The new buildings, which are of a substantial character, that are in course of erection, when completed will add greatly to the appearance of the town. The Masons held a meeting on Saturday afternoon, the 24th ult., for the purpose of taking steps to organize a lodge. The Odd Fellows are also considering the pro priety of organizing. We are pleased to notice these evidences, of permanency. Centerville seems to be the most flourish. ing place in the county at present. After spending a few hours with the genial citizens of the town, and being shown over Mess. Jacob & Co's new store by one of the firm, Mr. M. Silverman, we bade adjeu to it and resumed our wanderings. We started for Kingston by the road on the north side of the river, but as there are so many roads leading everywhere, commencing nowhere, and running in no particular direction, we found ourselves after a couple or three hours ride at Smith's Ferry, and twenty miles from Kingston. Hamilton Smith not being at home we concluded to push on to Kingston, which place we reached about 4 P. M. on Saturday. As we rode up in front of "Red" Sanderson's we were greeted by the smil-Lance Gilroy, his clever clerk, both of whom gave us a hearty welcome. Bliss was over at his stable, so we took our alkali water we went with Mr. Bliss to see his new ferry boat that he is having built. the receptacle of this class of people? Is It is to be pitched without and pitched within, and will be the bulliest boat in the river, upon a foot bridge made by letting them rest upon the water, to inspect Bliss's boat, Jim Walker hove in sight. Jim suggested that we go back to Sanderson's and suck "some pizen " of course we didn't go. Jeff. Haines was at the grocery when we got there, and by the time we had disposed of seven or eight pints of "Red's" tarantula juice, the supper bell rang. A hasty repast upon pickles and coffee, and we accompanied Jeff. Haines to the camp ground, about half a mile from Kingston, where the than twenty-five of the former, or fifty of meeting of the M. E. Church South for that district was being held. After the meeting was over for the evening Jeff. and his partner, whose name has escaped our memory, proposed, as we did not know the way across the foot-bridge, and as Jim Walker was in the same predicament, that one of us should ride one of their horses over, while the other would conduct one of us across the bridge. Jim insisted that he knew the road, and that we should ride. So we did. Jim crossed the bridge, or rather got nearly to the opposite shore, and then turned around to see how those who followed him were getting along, when in he went into the river. Beds being scarce in the town friend Bliss kindly took us to his private residence and provided us with one of the best beds that we have had the privilege of reposing upon for many days.

Rising early in the morning we partook of a bountiful breakfast, and again we started for the camp ground. Jim Walker went with the boys to the river to show them how he fell in the night before Getting upon the same plank that he fell turned around in this way, and just as I ground. The meeting was well attended, and very interesting. Between two hundred and fifty and three hundred persons were present. "Red" Sanderson had the eating establishment on the ground, and he put on lots of the best quality of grub. Bliss has had a town site surveyed and platted and recorded, for the town of Kington. The town is improving considerably. Levis, Sweet & Co. are just about completing a fine large store, and when it is finished it will be the finest building in the county outside of the Court House. Bliss is also making many improvements about his place. Jeff. Haines trotted us around, introduced us to a great many people, and secured us quite a number of subscribers. Jeff. is a whole souled, noble fellow, such a man, in fact. as it does one good people at Kingston we can hardly particularize them. Mr. Gilroy, with Mr. Fleishman & Co., also rendered us many favors. Monday morning came but too quickly, so we had to again be off for nome, via Centerville, at which place we spent Monday night. Tuesday morning we left Centerville, with the intention of going to the head of Big Dry Creek, and then following down it, canvassing by the way, but again we got off our road and soon found that we were a long distance from where we wished to go, so we cut cross the country, and about three o'clock in the afternoon reached the residence of the Wyatt brothers. Tom and Billy, assisted by Mr. Sample, were engaged in getting a hay press in readiness for baling nay. Jim was away; where we couldn't say. He has had a sore finger for a time and we are of the opinion that if that sore finger will only last a week or two sore linger will only last a week or two longer—! well, that's all right Jimmy.

"It is an ill wind that blows nobody good."
Send us a piece of the cake when you send the notice. The boys thought we looked hungry, so we were invited up to the house to partake of a lunch. We tried to play a longer will be send to the last of two partakes of of two parta play delicacy upon them, but we guess we made a failure; at any rate there was a very large amount of eatables that made their disappearance. We arrived home just in time to find that our subs. had gotten up a most excellent paper, and one with which the public could not fail being pleased. We are certain that in all the world cannot be found a lot of people more obliging, genial and whole-souled, than the people of Fresno county, or at east so far as we have been able to judge by actual experience. We had heard it stated that Mr. V. F. Geisler had left Kingston, but when there we had ocular demonstration of the fact that he is still there, and what's more, we don't think the people of Kingston will let him go! they can't spare him. We are so well pleased with what we have seen that we turned the plank toppled, and in I went.'

Just as he said that in he went again.

We passed a pleasant day upon the camp

HERE, says the Chicago Times, is something about the question of Chinese and Mongolians as voters in this country which may as well be brought to the public re membrance. In the House of Representatives at Washington, on the 22d of March, 1869, Mr. Johnson moved a suspension of the rules so as to enable him to submit this resolution; think we will go and see them again soon.

"Resolved. That, in passing the resolution for the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, this House never intended that Chinese and Mongolians should become voters. The motion to suspend the rules was lost-yeas 48, nays 106, not voting 42the yeas consisting of 44 Democrats and only 4 Republicans, and all the navs being Republicans. Thus, we see that the Republicans in the House, by an overwhelming majority, voted that, in passing the resolution for the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, the House did intend that Chinese and Mongolians should become voters.

We need not make any comment on this proceeding. We present it to the public in its nakedness.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

THE PROSPECTS OF WINTER. - The weather savants in different parts of the State are predicting, as usual, that we will have an early and heavy winter. We have also been studying the different weather omens and have concluded, from the fact of the geese and cranes flying south thus early: the swallows leaving their nests; the mornings and evenings growing cold; the wintry feeling of the winds; the leaves turning yellow and falling off the trees; the appearance of water in the beds of streams that have been as dry as powder horns the entire season; the appearance of the Northern Lights, and dozens of other unmistakable signs that have never been known to fail in this section, and also the experience of signs that have never been known to fail in this section, and also the experience of citizens who have resided in the county for the past twenty years, and have studied the mater closely and carefully, and have become so thoroughly convinced that they are perfectly willing to back us up in our our opinion; and the further fact froat has made its appraisance in the frost bas made its appearance in the mountains, that we haven't the least idea whether the winter will be early or late, light or heavy.

THE KINGSTON CAMP MEETING .- The Kingston camp meeting was an immense Amgson camp meeting was an immense auccess. Up to Sunday niglt, the 25th inst., there were thirty-nine persons joined the church, as members in full standing. Thirty-two persons received the baptismal ordinance, seven of which, including one lady were immersed in the river. The ordinance, seven of which, including one lady, were immersed in the river. The attendance throughout the meeting was quite large, and the behavior of those present very decorous. A church was organized and a committee, consisting of Bros. Two Crops in One Season.-When on King's river, a few days since, we were King's river, a few days since, we were shown a piece of land upon which two good crops have been, or rather will be, raised this season. The first crop was barley, and yielded very well; the ground was then replowed and a crop of corn was planted. The corn is now about ready for barvesting, and will hardly be surpassed on the river. The land is situated in the King's river bottom, and there are thousands of acres in the same vicinity equally good.

ACCIDENT .- On the 24th ult., a son of Mr. Whitesides, residing near Kingston, met with a painful accident while in pursuit of some cattle near what is called the "Twenty-five Mile Corral." He had got "Twenty here Mile Corral." He had got his lasso in readiness to catch an animal when his horse stumbled into a badger hole and threw him off, dislocating his right wrist and breaking his collar-bone on the right side, by the fall. Dr. Davidson was called and skillfully attended to the sufference wants. the sufferer's wants.

It stands every resident to do as much trad-ing as possible, inasmuch as they can buy as cheap, at home, and not send their enoney off to enrich other sections, Mr. Froelich has just returned from below where he purchased a very large supply of new goods.

ACCIDENT .- On Monday a little daughter of Mr. E. Miles, who lives near this place, met with a painful accident. She was playing in company with two other children, when she fell down and broke one of her arms. Dr. Leach was immediately sent for, and he rendered the little sufferer requisite surgical aid.

SQUIRREL SCALPS. - Judge Rumble issued the first certificate, under the new law, for squirrel scalps, on Monday Iast, that has been issued in this county. The claimant for bounty was Mr. E. Benson, and the number of scalps presented was FINGER BOARDS.-We are convinced, by experience, that the Board of Supervisors should procure finger-boards and place them at different points along the principal roads, so that a person could find a road without getting lost three or four times in the attempt. If the county was thickly settled, so that a person could inquire the way, it would be different, but as it is it is almost innossible for a tray. as it is it is almost impossible for a traveler to keep from getting lost.

SCARING OFF THE DEVIL .- Our Chinese population repaired to their burying ground, on Sunday last, to feed their dead and drive the devil away. We shink if the Old Scratch didn't get frightemed away, that he don't scare worth a cent, for they kept up a most incessant fusilate for a while with fire-crackers, Chinese bombs, and firearms. Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dall, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and tand have but little appetite, and you stribute his to dyspepsia, or liver complaint?

self abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, MAKE THE MAN.

DID YOU EVER THINK that those bold, defiant, anergetic, persevering, successful business men, are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health.

You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, or palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged; they are always pleasant and polite in the society of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only

Triumph of Humility.

Once from a cloud a drop of rain Fell trembling on the sea, And when she saw the wide-spread main, Shame veiled her modesty.

"What place in this wild sea have I? What place is left for me? Sure it were better that I die In this immensity?"

But while her self-abasing fear Its lowliness conf ssed, A shell received and welcomed her, And pressed her to its breast.

And, nourished there, the drop became

FOR THE CHILDREN.

WHO SUCCEEDS ?- The boy who in childhood has been of use to himself and parents, one who has had work to do to help his mother or his father, who has had to toil and save his earnings, to study how to set his food and clothing, and to carefully husband all of his earnings. Such are the young men who, when they reach mature years, constitute the bone and sinew of the country. Not many of this kind of men fail in life. They are the men who conquer difficulties, and win success in whatever department of life they may be placed. There is no greater mistake by parents than that of training children in idleness and self-indulgence. Teaching them to earn nothing for the common fund of a family, but to spend everything in self-indulgence.

Honesty.-Frankness, genorsity, virtue -blessed traits! Be those your's, my boys, and we shall not fear. You are watched by your elders. Men looking for clerks and apprentices have their eyes upon you. If you are profane and vulgar they will not choose you. If you are upright steady, and industrious, before long you will find good places, kind masters and the prospect of a useful life before you.

MISCELLANY.

The State of New York has 880 lodges of Good Templars.

The Jews are about to establish a firstclass Hebrew university in Berlin.

Joe Williams, the colored Conservative Tennessee orator, has taken the stump for the Democratic party in Louisiana. The population of Washington City is 109,335; of the District of Columbia, 131.

889-an increase since 1860 of seventynine per cent. The Mew York Democrat thinks that canibals must be light eaters, in view of the statement that there are only two missionaries to 20,000 canibals. William Norton, convicted of horse-stealing, recently entertained a select party of Missourians with a performance, on the tight-rope.

The platform of the Democracy of Georgia squarely reaffirms the doctrine of State rights, as maintained before the rebellion, and puts forward no other issue.

According to the Charleston (S. C.) Trapers, the cotton crop of the State shows an increase for the last year of from 2,-439,000 bales in 1868-'69 to 3,000,000 bales 1869-'70.

A census taker recently asked a servant girl in the vicinity of Boston how many regular, steady boarders there were in the house. She informed him that there were fifteen boarders in all, "but not more'n four of 'em is steady; the rest is radicals."

THE population of London is nearly double that of Paris, four times that of New York, five times that of Berlin, six times that of St. Petersburg, twelve times that of Amsterdam, and eighteen times that of Rome. The inhabitants of Paris. Berlin, Vienna and St. Petersburg, added together, fall short of the population of London, which exceeds that of all Scotland, is more than equal to two-th irds of Ireland, and constitutes nearly on 3-eighth of the whole population of Great Britain. The increase alone in the inhabitants of London during the last thirty years exceeds the entire population of Greece, brigands included. Indeed, one of the most surprising things about m odern London is the rapidity of its gro wth. Notwithstanding its already enorr nous size in 1849, not fewer than 225,324 new houses have been added to it since then, forming 68 new squares and 5,331 new streets, of the total length of 1.030 miles ! Nor has the growth of London apparently been checked, notwithstanding adverse times, for 5,167 houses were in course of erection in the month of February last. In short, as a French observer said of London, "It is not so much of a city, as a province covered by houses."

IMPROVE YOUR SHEEP .- Most men who breed sheep are accustomed to isolate the rams about the first of August, and return them to the flock again about the first of November, or later, as the latitude may determine.

Through the middle tier of States, the first of April is probably the best time for spring lambs. The mothers need green feed as soon as may be after their young is dropped, and that is generally ready from the 20th of the month to the first of May. [In this latitude green grass is obtainable much earlier-ED. Ex.] Further north the middle of the month is early enough, as the weather is colder and the starting of the grass much more backward."

To keep the flock constantly improving the first necessity is to change bucks frequently. We would suggest every year if possible, to make a selection from a foreign flock that shall equal your own.

One whose aim is to get early and good lambs for market would not introduce merino blood; or if he wanted fine wool neither a cotswold nor southdown.

Not less important is breeding from good ewes. Any flock of sheep will deto. riate unless the best are saved for breeders. Seven seasons are enough for even the best sheep to be used for mothers. After nine years old, they lose so much of their vitality and their milk producing qualities that the lambs are generally below the average. As soon as the lambs are weaned-which should be by the middle of September, if they were born before the middle of April-all the ewe sheep in the flock that are not of suitable age, of form, and of suitable health for mothers, should be taken out, and in some way disposed of. They can generally be fattened in the fall or early winter, and either sold to the butchers or otherwise disposed of.

Hundreds of farmers who sell early lambs are guilty of the great folly of selling the very best, and allowing those that will not sell so well go through the winter, and eventually become mothers. This would seem to be a saving, but it is, instead, suicide. When the best are saved for breeders, the flock is constantly improving; when the poorest are permitted to become such, there is a gradual detoriation, and an ultimate running out.

No farmer is worth the name and age who is not always on the alert to make both his farm and stock upon it better. It does not require capital to do this so much as it does care, and in the end the best farming and the best stock raising pay the best.-Hearth and Home.

WASHING FLUID .- The following has been tested with perfect satisfaction for more than five years. Dissolve one and a quarter pounds of washing soda, and a quarter of a pound of borax in a gallon of water by boiling. When the solution is cold, add about half a teacupful of spirits of ammonia (commonly called hartshorn), and put it up in well corked bottles. Use a cupful to each pailful of water in wash-

ALL four of the Republican candidates r Congress in South Carolina are as are also the candidate for Lieutenant Governor and the chairman of the Republica State Executive Committee, not to speak of the Supreme Court Judges and the Secretary of State being blacks. Does not this look a little as if the Republicans had raised a devil in the shape of the negro element of their party which the white men in the organization find it a little hard to manage? Perhaps it will be harder still when, in the next National Republican Convention, the black element demands that nomination for the Vice Presidency, for which Fred. Douglas and the negro Lieutenant-Governor of Louisiana are now the most prominent candidates in training, with chances n favor of the latter and blacker aspirant.

THE chairman of an Iowa vigilance committee, who was instructed to duck an obnoxious citizen, thus reports to his constituents: "We took the thief down to the river, made a hole in the ice, and proceeded to duck him; but he slipped through our hands and hid under the ice. All our efforts to entice him out failed and he has now retained his advantage some hours."

SCHUYLER COLFAX, Vice President, retired, or rather declared his purpose to retire, from public life forever at the end of his present term, some days ago. We have yet to see or hear a solitary regret expressed at the contemplated departure of this great man from the public service. Let us all rise and sing!

By ALL MEANS.—An exchange says 'Wyoming having tried female jurors, now proposes to send a woman to Congress. If the woman has done anything that the laws of Wyoming are not sufficiently stringent to properly punish, send her to Congress by all means—and may God have mercy on her."

SIXTY .- A shrewd observer once remarked, as he sat in the gallery of the United States Senate, "Here I am looking down upon sixty candidates for the Pres-

THE ELLIPTIC

SEWING MACHINES! WARRANTED THE BEST.

THE Elliptic Sewing Machines are manufactured and warraned by the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company. The late and important improvements enable us to guarantee to every purchaser that the Elliptic Machine will do more work, better work, and a greater variety of work than any other Sewing Machine now in use. The economy of the Elliptic Machine in a family is almost incredible; with one, a good operator can do the work of twelve hands. By it, the making of garments is reduced from a question of hours to one of minutes as the following table will show:

COUNTY OFFICIAL AYERS' CHERRY PECTORAL,

Danagart.

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Asthman and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind as this excellent remedy ror pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given against incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed, as all are sometimes subject to color and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When mething else could reach them under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy. and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checkad, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sedi ment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turn. ing gray or falling off, and consequently preven baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely
